A Monthly Publication of RAE

December 2022

Notes from Beneath the Blue Awning

Dear UWF Community:

End-of-term lectures. Exam week. Grading of Finals. Commencement. Grade Submission.

Soon the harried end of the term will transition into the well-earned calm of the holiday break. As we prepare for that respite, RAE is planning one last session to provide UWF faculty with the information and skills necessary to secure the external funds needed to make a transformative impact in your teaching, scholarship, and service. On Thursday, Dec. 15, RAE will play host to the Sponsored Research Proposal Toolkit Workshop in which Hanover Research will lead three sessions providing information on topics important to all types of proposals:

- Developing Strong Data Management Plans
- Keys to Successful Collaboration
- Large-Scale Proposals – Tricks and Tips for Success

Please use the workshop's online RSVP form to let us know you will join us (and, yes, there will be a virtual option, so you can join us from the comfort of your pajamas).

If you were not able to attend the inaugural RAE Mini Workshop held on Nov. 17, please watch the UWF Research Week webpage, where we will soon post slides, recordings, and handouts from that one-day event.

Looking ahead, I have opened the call for nominations for the 2023 Distinction in Faculty Scholarly, Creative, and Research Activities Award. Faculty in all disciplines are eligible. Nomination must be made by the nominee's chair, associate dean, or dean and are open through Jan. 27, 2023.

On behalf of the entire staff of the UWF Office of Research Administration and Engagement, I wish each of you a wonderful and restorative holiday.

Matt Schwartz
Professor and AVP of Research Administration
