

Gene-Culture Coevolution and its Relationship to the The Nature-Nurture Problem

The genetic history of our species and the cultural evolution of humanity are intimately linked--the former setting the foundation for the latter, which now influences the former.

Hence, nature (genetic inheritance) and nurture (experience and learning) are reciprocally intertwined.