Notes from Beneath the Blue Awning

Hello UWF Researchers,

Regular readers of this column (you know who you are!) will know that RAE has contracted with Hanover Research to support proposal preparation and training. We will continue to share opportunities for open Grants Webinar Series events (such as the recent Building Your Research Career event), but I wanted to give you an early heads-up that we are planning UWF-specific webinar workshops on how to write a proposal concept paper (and use it to contact a sponsor program officer) AND how to interpret a request for proposals so that your proposal matches the sponsor's requirements. We are getting these on the books for March and April, respectively, and are already planning an intensive proposal development workshop in May. If you are interested in these or related topics, please drop me a note at research@uwf.edu.

A reminder that this Friday, RAE staff will be hosting a CUTLA workshop related to intellectual property, an issue that I know can be both confusing and important to faculty creators. If you have questions about IP, I encourage you to register via the Upcoming Workshops Schedule on CUTLA's website.

Regards,

Matt Schwartz
Professor and AVP of Research Administration

p.s. Thanks to all of the faculty and staff who are working to complete your unit's Space Inventory (SPIN) reports, accessible via the SPIN "app" in MyUWF. Please contact Donna Frazee, Robin Anderson (UWF Facilities), or me with any questions.
